

Annie Frey is a marketing firm executive from Greenwich, CT. Through her photography, she captures the beauty of her subjects within the outdoor environment. Other interests include drawing and painting as well as playing sports such as field hockey and lacrosse. She loves spending time with her family at their Cape Cod house. She hopes to continue the use of her photography skills into her professional life.

These photographs were taken in Brewster, Cape Cod. The subjects of the photos are my family members including my cousins and younger sister. I chose this subject because our Cape Cod house is somewhere where we spend a lot of time together as family. I wanted to capture the beauty of their face, as well as the surrounding beaches and environment. Through these photographs I was able to create a time capsule of our memories together which will hold meaning for a lifetime.
